Dentistry in Focus with Dr. Riten Patel

NERVOUS PATIENTS

Nervous about dentistry?

Don't worry, we are dental phobia certified. Are you scared of the dentist? Does the idea of visiting a dental practice send you into floods of anxiety and worry? For years being scared of the dentist has been the cause of poor dental health for thousands of people, where they have put their fears of anxieties before essential treatment. Now, thanks to advances in dental treatment, technique and patient care, nervous patients can get the treatment they need and deserve at The Mulberry.

Here at The Mulberry, we see nervous patients every day, and we are proud to announce that Dr. Riten Patel (GDC-77930) is Dental Phobia Certified by www.dentalphobia.co.uk, a recognition reserved only for those who meet levels of excellence in the treatment and care of dental phobia sufferers.

So what is the difference about the way we treat nervous patients at The Mulberry?

The first thing we do, as simple as it sounds, is we listen to you and we spend time with you to understand your fears and concerns. Since we are a private dental clinic we can dedicate more time for our patients. We then devise a plan tailored to you in order to make your dental treatment as comfortable as possible. This may involve thorough explanation of all stages of treatment, use of numbing gels before injections, sedation to put you in a relaxed dream-like state, we even have a device called "The Wand" which has been designed to make injections entirely painless. If you have been thinking about dental treatment but are nervous about what this may entail, or are in fear, take the first step and pick up the phone and speak to us.

If you are a nervous patient in need of a caring dentist then The Mulberry a call on 01932 223479 to book your free cosmetic smile consultation with Dr. Patel (GDC-77930) today.

IMPLANT RETAINED DENTURES

Do loose dentures cause you a problem?

Dentures are a major part of many people's lives. They enable you to smile, eat and provide structure and support for your cheeks and lips. A recent survey carried out on denture patients revealed that over 80% were unhappy with their dentures for the following reasons:

They don't fit properly

They cause irritation and pain of the gums

They make eating a painful experience

You cannot eat what you want because they are too loose and fall out.

Why do most denture patients suffer so much?

All dentures should be manufactured bespoke with pinpoint precision. If your dentures are not fabricated to fit your mouth structure accurately, they will irritate your gums, cause local inflammation and feel uncomfortable. This can make the simple, enjoyable things in life, such as eating, an arduous task. Dr. Patel says "A lot of denture patients that come to see me have been suffering for years with ill fitting dentures and I get great satisfaction out of making a set of dentures which gives them a life changing experience".

Do any fixatives hold dentures securely in place?

Even with perfectly designed dentures, crafted by the world's best denture technician, they still come loose when attempting to eat certain foods, such as biting into an apple. The best way to anchor loose dentures so that you can eat and smile with complete confidence is by securing them in place with dental implants. Implants are small titanium posts that are inserted into your jawbone and provide a solid anchor to attach to the denture. With implants you will regain the confidence you once had with your natural teeth. Eating your favourite foods should not be a luxury it should be a right.

If you want to learn more about implant retained dentures give The Mulberry a call on 01932 223479 to book your free cosmetic smile consultation with Dr. Patel (GDC-77930) today.

INVISALIGN

Invisalign is the revolutionary method of straightening teeth through the use of clear custom-made aligners. It is a comfortable method of teeth straightening treatment, making it easy to fit into your lifestyle and a great alternative to traditional braces.

How does Invisalign work?

Invisalign is comprised of numerous customer-made discreet and removable aligners, which are able to straighten teeth effectively over time. During treatment patients will normally need to change aligners every two weeks to move treatment forward, and each aligner should be worn for around 20-22 hours a day to ensure optimum results.

What are the advantages of Invisalign?

Invisalign is a treatment that will not only benefit young persons, but is one that can make a marked difference to the smiles of many adults. Patients who have had prior orthodontic treatment but who are in need of additional teeth straightening often choose Invisalign due to its discreet nature and removability - however it is advised you only do so for eating and cleaning your teeth.

Dr. Patel says "We see a lot of patients for Invisalign treatments and its surprising that many of our patients tell us that most of their friends and family don't even notice that they are undergoing any treatment!"

Can Invisalign help me?

Invisalign is able to treat a wide array of orthodontic problems, including tooth gaps, bite problems and crooked teeth. However, you will need to be assessed to discover if Invisalign Teen is a suitable treatment for your individual case.

If you are interested in Invisalign and want to find out if you are a candidate for treatment give us a call on 01932 223479 to book your free cosmetic smile consultation with Dr. Patel (GDC-77930) today.

AMALGAM FILLINGS

Are metal fillings ruining your smile?

Have you ever noticed a mouth full of black or metal fillings when somebody smiles? Is the sight of metal fillings ruining your smile? Do you shy away from the cameras when at social events, and cover your mouth when talking to other people? Replacement of amalgam (mercury based) fillings is one of the easiest ways to improve your smile.

At The Mulberry we practice amalgam-free dentistry and use safe techniques for their replacement with tooth coloured fillings. Depending on how many fillings you need replacing, this treatment can be completed in as little as 40 minutes. The end result - a natural looking smile! If you have metal fillings that you want replacing, give The Mulberry a call to book your free cosmetic smile consultation with Dr. Patel (GDC-77930) today.

CCTV: The woman police believe tried to help at the scene and, inset, Mr Warsame

Police need to speak to woman who intervened in train fight

by ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

A woman who intervened in a fight on a train is being urged to come forward by police investigating the death of aspiring rapper Warsame Warsame.

Mr Warsame died on Monday, March 4, two days after being found unconscious aboard the 1.16pm London Waterloo to Chessington service as it travelled between Wimbledon and Raynes Park stations.

Earlier that day, on the 12.42pm Hampton Court to Waterloo service, he had been involved in a fight with another passenger as the train travelled to Wimbledon from Raynes Park.

British Transport Police (BTP) are trying to establish whether he died as a result of injuries from the attack or from a pre-existing medical condition. The aspiring rapper, who went by the name DJ Instant, needed regular dialysis ever since being bottled inside a Kingston night-club in 2007.

Now the BTP have issued CCTV footage showing a woman they believe could have information about the alleged assault.

Detective Superintendent Gary Richardson, senior investigating officer, said: "After an altercation broke out between Warsame and another man, a woman on the train stepped in to challenge the man and immediately informed a member of staff.

"From viewing CCTV, we know she boarded the train at Surbiton station and left at Wimbledon.

"I must stress that this woman is innocent and she is not wanted in connection with this assault.

"She was on the train at the time and helped alert staff, who later informed police, and we simply want to find out what, if anything, she might know about Warsame's death.

"Our thoughts remain very much with Warsame's family at this acutely difficult and sad time for them, and we will do all we can to try to answer the many questions they have about the circumstances leading to his death.

"We are continuing to appeal for anyone with information to come forward. Do you know the woman? Are you the woman pictured? If so, we'd like to hear from you."

Anyone with information is asked to call British Transport Police on 0800 405040, quoting B5/LSA of 04/12/12. Alternatively call the independent charity Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

□ A 24-year-old man from Wallington, Surrey, was arrested on March 16 on suspicion of GBH. He was bailed to appear in court on April 22.

Police release A3 death names

Two men who died on the A3 between Hook and Esher on March 14 have been named.

A man who fell from the Clayton Road bridge over the A3 northbound has been named as Brian Self, 77, from Epsom.

A second man, Dr Rajesh Parkesh, 43, from Ascot, died after 10am after the motorbike he was riding crashed into a London Ambulance Service ambulance that was parked partly on the central reservation and partly on the A3 while dealing with the previous incident.

Surrey Police Detective Sergeant Gary Wright said: "We have already spoken to a number of witnesses, both at the scene and following our initial appeal for information. I would ask anyone who saw either of these incidents, who we have not already spoken to, to get in touch.

"This was a tragic series of events in a very public setting and I would urge anyone who has been affected by witnessing these incidents to seek appropriate support."

Anyone with information is asked to call Surrey Police's collision investigation unit on 01483 639922.

Abuse case public for only 5 days

by DAVID LINDSELL

d.lindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk was stalled by criminal proceedings that finished in November 2012.

The allegations dated back to 2003 and 2005, but the report into whether or not there were failings by Kingston Hospital, Kingston Council, police and other public bodies was published for just five days on February 22.

The report is no longer available and requests by the Kingston Guardian have since been refused.

Kingston Council said the decision to publish for just five days had been taken by the entire safeguarding board during Ann Dominey's chairmanship, before she resigned last year.

David Tucker, from the NSPCC, said: "Publishing serious case reviews for just a short period is not good

Taken offline: Director of children's services Nick Whitfield said re-publication of the serious case review would require the family's consent practice and we are concerned that this is happening.

"The idea of making these reports public is for people to discover what went wrong and to try to ensure those mistakes are not repeated.

"If this is not happening it can only be a hindrance to saving children from being seriously harmed or killed and does nothing to bolster confidence that lessons are being learned."

A Department for Education spokesman said: "Since June 2010 we have been clear that lessons can only be learned from these tragic cases if the findings are open and transparent to professionals and the public."

In a statement Kingston Council said: "Given the length of time this matter had been ongoing for family members it was agreed with them that the executive summary would be published on Kingston's LCSB website and as it was under old guidance it would only be published for a short period of time.

"This allowed the LCSB to better meet the needs of a very vulnerable family."

Councillor Patricia Bamford, the councillor responsible for children's services, said:

"I had a chance last night to discuss this matter very briefly with the director Nick Whitfield.

"He confirmed that the serious case review was published in line with guidance and that any possible future publication would require the consent of the family concerned."

A Kingston Council spokesman said he understood other London boroughs followed the same guidance.

But in a survey of 16 other London safeguarding children boards, all published anonymised executive summaries of serious case reviews as a matter of course.

Two boards – Hounslow and Brent – had removed serious case reviews after three months and six months respectively, but said the reviews were still available upon request.

Official opening: Olympian Beth Tweddle with pupils and headteacher Sarah Creegan

Deadlinepix KT74996

Medal winner drops by

Olympic medallist and triple world champion gymnast Beth Tweddle officially opened an expanded Chessington primary school this week.

The sporting star who took bronze at the London 2012 Olympic Games and also won ITV's Dancing on Ice show this year, visited Ellingham Primary School on Monday morning.

She officially unveiled the expanded school, which students began using before the summer Games.

Ellingham Primary School's rebuild and redesign took 15 months to complete.

The school has classrooms named after Olympians including Tweddle.

Headteacher

Sarah

Creegan said: "The children were very excited to meet Beth.

"The school is committed to Olympic and Paralympic values. "The school followed Beth closely on Dancing on Ice too.

"We showed the children clips of the show in assemblies to reinforce lessons about resilience, reflectiveness and responsibility."

Guests at the school's official opening included twin brothers John and Rob Christmas who were students at the school when it opened in 1955 and are now teachers.

After the ceremony the gymnast tweeted: "Great morning @EllinghamSchool thank you for making me feel so welcome!"

School website hit by porn site hackers

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

Parents of boys at Tiffin School discovered the school's website had been hacked and redirected to a porn video.

Pupils logged on to their school's website on Monday evening last week only to be redirected elsewhere.

A police investigation has now been launched into the internet security breach at the high-achieving grammar school.

A pupil from another school – Richard Challoner – who did not want to be named, said: "It was pretty crazy. My mate told me about it and I went on to the computer to see what was going on. The video showed a man and a woman having sex in a loop – so you couldn't stop it.

"The school was pretty quick in closing the site down though – but it is just crazy.

"The rumours are that it was someone at the school."

On Twitter MMTrollface appeared to take the credit for the hacking. He told one user who criticised him: "I am not the one who attends an all-boys' school."

Investigating: Tiffin School's website was hacked

A spokesman from Kingston police said: "Kingston police can confirm they are investigating the hacking of Tiffin Boys' school website, which occurred on March 18.

"The website was redirected to a number of different sites before being shut down. No arrests have been made at this stage."

Simon Toyne, assistant head at Tiffin School, said: "Investigations are ongoing, so we do not wish to comment further at the moment."

One parent said in an 11-plus internet forum: "Maybe they should pay more attention to website security."

Another said: "Shocking but I guess that is the downside to having super intelligent pupils (if it was a pupil).

"Maybe it was a disgruntled parent whose son didn't get a place?"

Teen burglar: I'll have to steal to find £500

A burglar who stole £5,200-worth of electrical goods from a school told magistrates the only way he could pay compensation would be to reoffend.

The 17-year-old from Chessington, who cannot be named for legal reasons, admitted stealing five computers, six Kindles, and three computer screens from Grey Court School in Ham.

He denied taking £500 in cash when he appeared at Wimbledon Youth Court on March 20.

The court heard the 17-year-old and his friend fled after setting off a burglar alarm when they

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk climbed through an open window.

But the pair were caught on CCTV returning 10 minutes later to ransack the classrooms at about 3am on February 2.

Prosecutor Stanley Amah said the boy's friend called a minicab and the pair left and sold off their haul that night.

The 17-year-old admitted he split the money from the sale with his accomplice but said he did not know what he spent it on.

Lead magistrate Margaret

Wilson handed the boy a youth rehabilitation order for nine months, to be completed by December 19, including an electronic tag for three months.

She also ordered him to pay £500 in compensation, which she said was a token payment and when she asked how he would pay it he laughed and said he only had 50p.

He said: "The only way I am going to get £500 is if I reoffend."

A pair of trainers left by the boy's accomplice led police to the second burglar, another 17-year-old. He is due to be sentenced at the same court on March 27.

Dentures? Missing Teeth? ...Have you heard about fixed teeth in a day?

Imagine no movement of dentures, no palate, and no obstructions!
NO PROBLEM.....

Our guess is, if you currently wear dentures or have missing teeth you would do anything to have fixed teeth again - well you can! The Denture and Implant Clinic offers the latest revolutionary techniques which are fast becoming the new way to solve missing teeth problems!

Confidence to eat and enjoy your food!

The Denture and Implant Clinic's founder Dr Justin Stewart was the first bio-functional prosthetic system qualified dental surgeon in the UK. He continued his studies determined to find better solutions for people with missing teeth and although Dr Stewart no longer practices, the clinic offers this amazing solution 'Fixed teeth' through his highly trained team.

Amazing Solutions for missing teeth

This amazing solution has been developed to allow implants to be placed in the upper or lower arch in the mouth (or both) and a bridge is fixed onto the implants which is secure leaving you confident in the knowledge that your teeth will not move. 'Fixed Teeth' is a fantastic solution for patients who are unhappy with their dentures or have been told they need dentures and want to avoid them. Our patients comment on how confident they feel after the procedure, knowing their teeth will not fall down or worse, fall out, during a conversation. The treatment means that patients can taste their food again...they have their palate back! The clinic receives numerous patients who were putting off having dentures and living in misery with painful teeth but are now pain free and happy, in some cases happier with their new smile than they were with their original smile!

Visit www.thedentureandimplantclinic.co.uk and read the success stories, you will be amazed!

Teeth being secured in the mouth

The clinic have a highly experienced and dedicated team, and each team member plays a part in ensuring the care the patient receives is an enjoyable experience. The Denture and Implant Clinic has its own dental laboratory on site. Patients will also be encouraged to bring in photographs of when they had their own teeth, and those photos are used during the reconstruction of the final bridge to perfectly replicate the smile that the patient once had.

Smile Advisor, Jennie Baker at The Denture and Implant Clinics says, "This really is an amazing new technique that will change people's lives. Living with 'false teeth' can be upsetting and difficult. Over the years we have encountered every conceivable problem patients endure, but this new fixed procedure allows patients to forget they ever wore dentures, leaving them free to enjoy their lives and have the confidence that we offer - a 100% guarantee with all our treatment!"

One in three convicts reoffend

One in three people reoffend in Kingston according to figures released by the London Probation Trust.

The most recent figures come from data compiled from October 2009 and September 2010.

Probation officers work with offenders who are given community orders or custodial sentences of more than 12 months.

In Kingston 35.3 per cent of offenders who served more than 12 months in custody reoffended - this is about 1 per cent more than the borough's target reoffending rate at 34.4 per cent.

But in neighbouring borough Richmond, the probation trust has done better than its target reoffending rate of 34.5 per cent, as only 30.4 per cent of offenders reoffended.

Croydon and Wandsworth boroughs also had lower reoffending rates against their given targets - but the latter was given more leeway with a higher target of reoffending being acceptable.

Boroughs such as Hounslow and Sutton did not meet their reoffending targets and had higher reoffending rates.

A spokesman from the London Probation Trust said: "Straight comparisons can be very misleading and even the Ministry of Justice confirms that the figures are not designed to be compared - it is not a league table."

"Different local factors such as demographics, varying police detection rates and use of cautions strongly influence these figures. Sometimes offenders reoffend in other boroughs, there are also different categories of offender and different types and patterns of offending and reoffending."

"Also some offenders will unfortunately, reoffend before work to address their offending has even begun."

Magistrate Joan McConn, who previously sat at Kingston Magistrates' Court, said: "Prison costs a lot of money and does not necessarily work for a lot of offenders. We do get a few back in."

"I think community orders are a good thing as they keep people in society and they are paying back for their wrong."

"People also like to see these people doing something for society."

Sugar Ray a hit at gym – but not at Kettle pub

by HANA HAUSMEISTER

hana.hausmeister@london.newsquest.co.uk

Legendary boxing star Sugar Ray Leonard sweet-talked fans around Surbiton, but snubbed fans at a boxing-themed pub.

He signed gloves and took part in a candid Q & A at the Surbiton Amateur Boxing Club in Ewell Road on Tuesday, March 19.

Nicola Sands, boxer at the club, said: "He is just the true legend and professional that you would expect. It was a bit surreal thinking that he was in Surbiton. It was just magic."

The visit was arranged by John Murphy, a trainer at the club, with the help of colleagues Alec Waller, Adam Martin, and Gary Thatcher.

Professional and amateur boxers, nearby fans and three children from Bedelsford School, Grange Road, came to the event.

Mr Waller, senior teaching assistant at Bedelsford, said: "They had a fantastic time. Sugar Ray Leonard made a big fuss of them and donated a signed glove to the school to help raise funds."

Mr Thatcher said: "I felt as you feel when you have got a legend come into your gym, in my opinion one of the greatest boxers

Boxing legend: Sugar Ray Leonard visited Surbiton who ever lived, and an absolute gentleman."

He said Leonard was very open and talked about emotional issues relating to his childhood, and what it takes to beat the likes of Roberto Duran.

But the visit was not so sweet for customers of the Saucy Kettle in Brighton Road. The former world middleweight champion was due to appear at the bar after leaving the boxing club, but did not show up.

Madeline Bartley, owner of the Saucy Kettle, said: "It was very disappointing for me and for our customers also. Sugar Ray Leonard left the amateur boxing club at the same time as other people who came here, but just did not turn up."

Surbiton Amateur Boxing Club has been running for two-and-a-half years. They have had visits from boxers Richie Woodhall and Joe Calzaghe.

They have up to 400 members.

Arctic medal

David Cameron hailed the first recipients of the Arctic Star medal as heroes he was proud to meet when he presented them with the newly-created decoration at 10 Downing Street.

The group, including Derek Hirst, of Kingston and Kenneth Scatchard, of Walton, are all survivors of the 1940s' Arctic convoys which, though one of the most dangerous and taxing exercises in military history, has never been recognised with a medal until last week.

Mr Cameron told them: "I cannot think of a prouder day that I have had in this job, or a group of people I am more honoured to share it with."

"I am only sorry it has taken 70 years to get you here, and to say thank you for what you did."

£300k sports funding 'step in right direction'

by JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

Primary school sports funding has arrived just in time, according to the women in charge of sports.

More than £300,000 will be made available for spending on sport, with teachers deciding how to distribute the cash.

But funding for a school sport partnership in the borough had previously been cut by the Government.

Sandra Blenkinsop, Kingston school sport partnership organiser, said: "It is good we have got this money, I am not going to say it isn't. It has come just in time.

"We have maintained the partnership and we have carried on much the same, only on a reduced level of funding.

"It would have been so much better if they had given it three years ago – we could have had things in place and not scrambled around.

"We will hopefully continue to deliver competition and PE programmes for Kingston schools."

Councillor Patricia Bamford, lead member for young people, said the grant did not erase the damage done by cuts to previous Government sports funding.

Flying the flag for sport: Kingston school sport partnership organiser Sandra Blenkinsop

She said: "They obliterated the schools partnership, which was really good at nurturing partnerships and coaching.

"In the way that so many things were cut that was just another casualty. This will not make up for it but it is a step in the right direction."

Ofsted inspectors will look more closely at sport and at how schools spend the new money, the Government said.

It also hoped the scheme would help reduce the number of children leaving primary school obese or overweight – currently one in three, it said.

Prime Minister David Cameron said the money would help "create a culture in our schools that encourages all children to be active and enjoy sport" after the London Olympics.

Surrey schools will receive about £2.7m, while primaries in Richmond borough will get about £370,000.

The figure was calculated on a per-pupil basis.

A Department for Education spokeswoman said: "We have listened to teachers, and to Ofsted, who have said that sport provision in our primary schools is far too often just not up to scratch.

"That is why we are putting money directly into the hands of primary headteachers to spend it on improving PE instead of maintaining the infrastructure of the school sport partnerships."

Benefits capped

Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey has defended Government plans to cap benefit rises at 1 per cent a year.

The move was opposed by Kingston Citizens' Advice Bureau and Bishop of Kingston Dr Richard Cheetham.

But Mr Davey said there was "a real need for reforming the system".

He said: "While we have taken tough decisions, we have stopped any ideas to freeze benefits for the poorest as some had proposed."

Disabled people speak out over verbal abuse

Runs a charity: Fran O'Brien

Deadlinepix HY4800

People with disabilities have spoken out about the abuse they sometimes face in public.

Fran O'Brien, 60, from New Malden, runs the Yadapa charity, which provides art workshops for young and disabled people.

Her ability to walk deteriorated due to childhood polio, and she uses a motorised wheelchair. Last summer she experienced a shocking instance of spitefulness.

She said: "I was crossing the road and was aware there was a car a way off in the distance. I had just started to cross and I heard an engine change gear. As they came towards me I could not do anything but keep going and pray."

"They were clearly finding it hilariously funny - they were trying to frighten me, not trying to hit me. If I had stopped in fright they may well have hit me. I just wonder whether people actually put themselves in your position."

Sometimes insensitivity can be a cause for amusement, she said. An elderly lady once said to her: "It must be lovely not having to walk."

Mrs O'Brien said: "I understood where she was coming

by JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

from. You need a sense of humour if you are disabled."

She had a positive experience in Snappy Snaps in Union Street, Kingston. After he was alerted to poor access, a worker arranged the same week for a ramp to be kept ready.

"He proved how easy it was to do that," Mrs O'Brien said.

Liam O'Carroll, 42, a freelance writer and actor who lives in Kingston, lost his sight in his late teens.

He recalled one incident in which someone pretended to spit in his ear.

He said: "They did not spit but they made the noise. That person had been there and was watching us all the way."

"Although they make you feel very uncomfortable and bad they are transparent in the sense that it does not have major implications for me."

But being given the impression he is unwelcome in shops, for example, is wearing, he said.

He said: "When people are being openly abusive you know where you stand. Being excluded is far more damaging in the long term."

Family 'waited 11 hours for GP'

by ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

A father has said he is furious with Kingston's out-of-hours GP service after waiting 11 hours for a doctor to see his child.

But bosses at care service provider Harmoni maintain the response was "appropriate".

Kevin Carter described care service Harmoni as "amazingly badly organised" after a doctor arrived to see his 18-month-old son Liam at 3pm on Saturday - having made an initial call at 4am.

That was after the family had been sent backwards and forwards from Kingston Hospital, after the provider

"I have just lost all confidence in them."

Mr Carter first phoned Harmoni to report Liam was screaming and had a high temperature.

But he claims he was told doctors only visited patients who were housebound or elderly, and he should drive Liam to Kingston Hospital's accident and emergency department himself.

Mr Carter is registered disabled after breaking his neck 18 years ago, and was unable to drive on account of his medication.

With wife Kerry caring for their eldest son Lewis, who had tonsillitis, Mr Carter said Harmoni booked an appointment for them at Kingston Hospital at 10am.

But when they arrived at the hospital, staff had no record of the booking - and the family returned home.

At 3pm that day, a doctor arrived and diagnosed Liam with tonsillitis - but had to travel back to Kingston Hospital to get prescription forms for antibiotics.

Harmoni service delivery manager Kevin Evans said: "We have fully investigated the background to this case and are satisfied the appropriate advice and care was offered and within the timescales by which we are measured by national quality standards."

"The family were offered appropriate advice and were subsequently invited to attend our Kingston Hospital base to see a GP."

"When a misunderstanding arose over the appointment timing, a home visit was arranged and carried out."

Furious: Kevin Carter with his sons Lewis and Liam

Dream of diner is realised

A Norbiton man has opened a diner in memory of his brother who died last year.

Graffiti artist Dean Roberts died being comforted by friends and family at St George's Hospital, Tooting, on October 10, 2012, at the age of 28, following a three-year battle with cancer.

His younger brother Aaron Perry, 23, of Roseberry Road, brought to life his late sibling's dream when he officially opened Dean's Diner in Streatham Homebase.

The father-of-four said: "He had always wanted to do it - open a cafe. He always spoke about it. A couple of weeks before he died we even went to view a place."

"Dean loved food - he ate anything and everything. We serve a mix of things here - burgers, baguettes, breakfast, hot dogs. It is a mobile cafe on wheels really."

Mr Perry, who was previously the youngest director at Kingston-based environment group Save the World, said the opening had gone really well.

Councillors should block these damaging proposals

Members of council planning committees will not be surprised to read the expose in the Daily Telegraph of the way some councillors use their position to help their developer friends and then appear happy to boast about it.

Readers may ask themselves how councillors with known connections with developers can be allowed to sit anywhere near a planning committee and then, in the words of the Daily Telegraph, use their position to "effectively circumvent the rules", but this is just part of a system that is constantly allowing inappropriate developments to be approved.

Our local – Conservative controlled – council of Elmbridge, which includes Esher, has recently approved draft development plan proposals that would considerably damage the environment, allow an automatic 30 per cent increase in the size of buildings in the greenbelt, seriously weaken protection for local employment sites and shopping centres, allow building on playing fields such as the Old Paulines in Thames Ditton and identified as "opportunity sites" for development valued sites such as Esher public car park, which serves the public who wish to visit the Civic Centre, the police offices, the shops, restaurants, the CAB, Esher library, the cinema and St George's Church.

Only the independent Residents' Association councillors opposed these proposals.

What is sad from Elmbridge's point of view is that our neighbouring Conservative borough of Richmond has brought in more robust protection.

It is not as if Elmbridge cannot meet targets for house building as our record shows.

If implemented, these proposals would seriously affect the character of our borough. Why is Elmbridge seemingly wanting to paint itself as the developers' friend?

Save Quaker Meeting House from destruction

My main feeling about the name "Red Square, Kingston" is boredom, because it is "an edgy statement" (a malicious, but delicious, one-liner) typical of post-modernism, designed to appeal to the degenerate taste of the affluent, so that "Red Square, Kingston" housing will sell like hot cakes to those wanting a post-modernism wallow.

Meanwhile, if the word culture means something more than the above, a significant part of the historic fabric of Kingston has either just been destroyed or is about to be destroyed with the blessing of the Kingston councillors on the planning committee.

I refer to the 300-year-old Quaker Meeting House site in Eden Street, Kingston, which may have already been destroyed to make way for an even larger Primark store.

There is so much local interest in saving the Penny School from destruction, so may I put in plea for the Quaker Meeting House complex of buildings in Eden Street to be similarly saved from destruction?

I ask because if this local school and or other local schools were (to quote your sister paper's feature writer June Sampson) "taught according to the principles of the Quaker educational pioneer, Joseph Lancaster" then it is quite probable that members of the Kingston Meeting House were actively involved in local education.

Food store owner fined £5k over breach in hygiene law

A New Malden food store owner has been fined more than £5,000 for breaking food safety laws.

Sooryun Kim admitted eight food hygiene offences at Richmond Magistrates' Court.

grocery store – Jin Mi in Kingston Road – included failing to control the risk of E coli contamination by letting customers use the same implements to serve themselves raw and cooked meats.

She also failed to keep the store and equipment clean, did not provide hand washing facilities for staff and did not have employees wearing proper over clothes.

Kingston Council had issued Kim with a warning in 2010, but on three separate inspections last year she allowed standards to slip.

Kim was fined £4,000 – £500 for each offence – and ordered to pay £1,200 costs.

Gift box reveals a message

Creative street displays raising awareness of human trafficking will be coming to Kingston from April.

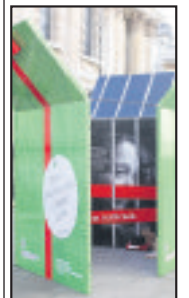

Giant gift boxes, from the Stop the Traffik charity, will be displayed at Kingston University and Clarence Street.

Appearing decorative on the outside, they open up to tell the story of human slavery. They went on display in Trafalgar Square last year.

The project comes to Kingston in collaboration with St John's Church, New Malden, and Dave Ryder-Mills, Liberal Democrat councillor for Norbiton.

Stop the Traffik is a global movement aiming to fight human trafficking around the world. It was formed in 2006 and has more than 45,000 members.

JAZZING IT UP

Funky, jazzy and feminine artist Jacqui Hicks is coming to the Boater's Inn.

Hicks started her musical life playing the recorder, before she found the clarinet and tried her hand at the tenor saxophone.

She studied classical music at the Leeds College of Music, where she met pop/rock artist Bill

Charleson. Favouring jazz over pop, her musical influences included

George Benson and Earth, Wind and Fire.

Hicks started a solo career in the 90s and composed songs such as Just a Breath Away.

WE LOVE LINDA

A line-up of top comedians such as Jo Caulfield, Jenny Eclair and Barry Cryer visits the Rose Theatre for a night of chuckles this May, in memory of comedian Linda Smith, writes Nazia Dewji.

They are set to appear in the annual comedy gala Loving Linda that hopes to raise money for Target Ovarian Cancer. The disease caused the death of Smith in February 2006.

The night, which will be hosted by award-winning writer and comedian Andy Hamilton, will feature performances from Ronnie Golden, Phill Jupitus and Stewart Lee, Carol Grimes and Dorian Ford.

A programme writer for So Graham Norton, last year's host Caulfield says: "I have a really good time doing this night. It is always a really good bill and I feel like I am doing something worthwhile in raising money and awareness. Often people who have had various cancers come along so it is a bonding experience. It is an amazing night.

Of Smith, Caulfield says: "I was just starting up and she was already very well established. I met her on a Radio 5 show and she was very welcoming. I remember her saying to me, 'I think you're very good.' It was so nice to have a woman say that. There was no competitiveness.

"She was very funny. I always really liked her. We never actually worked together but we got together on this show and met up a few times after to talk about ideas," Caulfield says she has never known anyone else to have had ovarian cancer but realises how it is a difficult illness to detect.

She says: "She is the only person I know that had it. The symptoms are very normal so it is very difficult for women to realise there is something wrong."

Host for the night Hamilton says: "I always look forward to this evening – not only because it is guaranteed to be hilarious and fun, but it is a fitting tribute to my good friend Linda Smith and a great way of raising funds and awareness for one of the lesser-known cancers that affects so many women in the UK."

The Loving Linda gala evenings have raised £100,000 to date.

It is a fitting tribute to my good friend

In memory: The fundraising tribute to comedian Linda Smith, main picture, will feature the likes of, right, from top, Andy Hamilton, Jo Caulfield and Barry Cryer

Cautious welcome for Budget's homes plans

Government could still do more say agents

Estate agents have given a cautious welcome to the plans announced in last week's Budget to help people buy a home of their own.

Chancellor George Osborne announced various measures to help purchasers.

Help to Buy – a development of the current FirstBuy and NewBuy schemes – will take two forms.

Buyers can take an interest-free loan from the government, available from April 1, which will help people who want to buy a new-build property.

It is available to existing homeowners as well as first-time buyers.

Borrowers will need to raise a deposit of five per cent of the value of the property but property@london.newsquest.co.uk can borrow a further 20 per cent on an interest-free basis. The biggest loan available will be £120,000.

The other part of the Help to Buy scheme sees the government acting as guarantor for some of a borrower's debt.

It will provide the lender with a guarantee of up to 15 per cent of your loan – allowing it to offer a mortgage even though the deposit you have put down might be as little as five per cent (the minimum to take part in the scheme).

This will be available from January next year and will be available to buyers of old as well as new-build properties.

The loan and guarantee will be available for homes worth up to £600,000 and there will be no cap on how much you can earn to qualify.

Mark Hayward, president of the National Association of Estate Agents (NAEA) said the proposals are a help but more needs to be done.

"The NAEA has consistently called on the Government and the banks to look at more comprehensive ways to improve access to funding for prospective homeowners, especially for the important first-time buyer market.

"In the absence of a Stamp Duty Holiday for first-time buyers, it is imperative that politicians, the house building industry and the major lenders continue to look at more ways to offer support to this fragile part of the sector."

The House Builders Federation (HBF) welcomed the proposals.

Stewart Baseley, executive chairman of HBF said: "A lack of affordable mortgage availability remains the biggest constraint on housing supply – something government now understands and is looking to address.

"Extending NewBuy to the secondhand market should create churn in the market place and drive up sales across the board – including for new homes.

"We do though need to ensure a level playing field across the whole market.

"Extending FirstBuy is very welcome and will provide a real option for people currently unable to buy – so providing a vital market for the new homes industry.

"Government must be praised for its attempts to stimulate activity, but must also be wary to get the details right."

Everyone buys it, but few read it

What best-selling booklet applies to the whole of England, Scotland and Wales and, according to the Government, is 'essential reading' for everyone?

The answer is simply The Highway Code. Yet, truthfully, when did you last even glance at it?

The fact is many of its rules reflect laws that everyone needs to be aware of.

But according to a new motoring survey by breakdown service Autonation Rescue, most motorists haven't read the Code for many years.

The survey, undertaken by YouGov, asked motorists when they had last read anything at all from the Highway Code?

In total, half said they hadn't read anything from

Most motorists have not read the Code for many years the Highway Code for more than five years. And in detail, the figures speak for themselves:

- nine per cent simply couldn't recall when they last read the Code;
- eight per cent said it was more than 30 years ago; • 11 per cent said it was between 20 and 30 years ago; • 17 per cent between 10 and 20 years ago; • 14 per cent between five and 10 years ago; • 23 per cent said they last read the Code between one and five years ago;
- 10 per cent said it was between six months and a year, and finally;
- eight per cent within the last six months.

Autonation Rescue's marketing manager Ronan Hart, said: "Many motorists believe their driving experience more than makes up for not knowing what's in the Highway Code.

"But if you disobey many of its rules, either deliberately or by not being aware of them, you'll be committing a criminal offence and can be fined, given penalty points or disqualified from driving. In the most serious cases you could even be sent to prison.

He added: "It's really a question of common sense, but the booklet should not be allowed to just gather dust on your shelves.

"Sitting down once in a while and refreshing your memory about what's in the Highway Code is good practice and I guarantee you will find some surprises in there of rules of the road that you just weren't aware of."

Here's what The Code says about breakdowns:

If your vehicle breaks down, think first other road users and

- get your vehicle off the road if possible;
- warn other traffic by using your hazard warning lights;
- wear light-coloured or fluorescent clothing in daylight and reflective clothing at night or in poor visibility;

• put a warning triangle on the road at least 45 metres (147ft) behind your broken-down vehicle on the same side of the road, or use other permitted warning devices if you have them.

- always take great care when placing or retrieving warning devices, but never use them on motorways;

- if possible, keep your sidelights on if it is dark or visibility is poor

• do not stand (or let anybody else stand) between your vehicle and oncoming traffic

• at night or in poor visibility do not stand where you will prevent other road users seeing your lights.

Today more than a million copies are sold each year in its printed version, carrying a recommended retail price of £2.50. But you can even save on that cost now as the Code's latest edition can be viewed freely online at www.gov.uk/highway-code.

Unhappy: Alan Dowson hit out at the Lowestoft ref

Dowson in ref blast

Kingstonian boss Alan Dowson slammed the referee after Andre McCollin was sent off in the 1-0 defeat against Lowestoft on Monday night.

The first half dismissal, for an alleged elbow, left Ks with only 10 men for the majority of the Ryman Premier Division game at Kingsmeadow.

Dowson had vowed to sort out indiscipline after Wade Small was sent off against Bury Town on March 16, but he leapt to the defence of McCollin on Monday night.

"Our lad says he did do it, their lad says he did do it. Sometimes you can back into players but I don't think there was an elbow from Andre."

"But in terms of the referee, I don't know where they get them from sometimes, I really don't."

Ks were due to face Enfield on Wednesday at Kingsmeadow, before they travel to Hampton & Richmond on Saturday and then host Met Police on bank holiday Monday.

Onslow-Cole's BTCC plan going to the wire

by TIM ASHTON

tim.ashton@london.newsquest.co.uk

New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole admits preparations for this year's British Touring Car Championship are very last-minute, but he remains confident of a positive outcome.

The new BTCC season starts this weekend at Brands Hatch, with Onslow-Cole still to get behind the wheel of his next generation touring car Volkswagen Passat.

The 25-year-old signed a three-year deal in January with Tony Gilham's Team Hard – which enjoyed one top three finish last season – after finishing sixth last year with Team eBay Motors.

Onslow-Cole's car is a new build, so new in fact it is not yet finished.

He said: "We haven't been able to do any testing yet, but we're hoping the car will be ready for testing on Thursday night."

"We'll have track time on Friday, and it may seem last minute but I have every confidence in the product we've built."

"It may seem late, but the car has to be right. If we rush it through and something is wrong, then it can take all year to get right."

"It's important to get the build right first time round."

Since entering the BTCC in 2007, Onslow-Cole has spent six seasons moving from one team to another, so it was a surprise to some that he signed a three-year deal with Team Hard.

However, rather than preferring a nomadic existence, Onslow-Cole said it was not how he wanted to spend his career.

He said: "The past few seasons have not been ideal or how I wanted to do things."

"But I managed to strike a deal with Tony, and from a personal point of view it is perfect."

"Looking at it as a three-year project is not necessarily what we want to do, because we want to be winning the title by next year."

"The plan is to get the car right this year, get some wins under our belt and then have a good winter in preparation for next year."

"This year might be difficult, but we're looking for good results throughout the season."

Meanwhile, team-mate Howard Fuller of Worcester Park will drive for Gilham on a part-season basis – the 20-year-old made his BTCC debut last year.

The BTCC kicks off on March 31, before going to Donington Park on April 21.

Darcie is worth the risk

Surbiton skier Darcie Mead proved she was prepared to take a risk to win the women's super G title at the DeLancey British National Alpine Championships.

Sixteen-year-old Mead outstripped her nearest opponent from Kent by more than three seconds to win in Meribel, France on Sunday.

Meribel is turning into a happy hunting ground for Mead, as the Surbiton High School pupil has won there on three previous occasions.

However, despite that record, she was still surprised to win this time round.

She said: "It is a bit of a shock, just as it was last year."

"Last year I won the junior super G, but this season coming into this I just did not expect to win very much."

"It means a lot to me to win here because I am one of the youngest, so it is a real honour to win at 16 years old."

Mead, pictured, added: "Last year the course was much straighter and there were not many problems, but this time it was much more technical."

"I am not the best technical skier here but I am prepared to take the risks."

Surbiton make history on weekend of high drama

Surbiton Ladies skipper Sarah Haycroft is contemplating going all the way after her team clinched a spot in the WHL Premier Division Championship / European play-offs.

A shock 2-1 win over leaders Canterbury at Sugden Road on Saturday was enough to claim the fourth and final spot in the play-offs, due to be played on April 20 to 21 at Reading.

First-half strikes from Vicky Bryant and Hannah Coulson had Surbiton in the driving seat, and, despite clinging on for much of the second half after Canterbury halved the deficit, Haycroft and her team-mates were able to celebrate a momentous occasion at the final whistle.

There were even more celebrations to come on Sunday when the men also reached their play-off finals.

Desperate defence: Surbiton ladies are all hands to the pumps during the win over Canterbury on Saturday

Deadlinepix SP74973

Strikes from Rob Moore, James Tindall and Alexander Penney secured a 3-2 win at Brooklands MU and a place at the April 13 to 14 showdown, also in Reading.

Neither Surbiton side know their play-off opponents yet after the weather disrupted the final weekend's fixtures.

Haycroft said: "This is the first time both sides have been in the Premier Division play-off finals, which is a fantastic achievement."

"The women have always been in the lower leagues, so it is great to be strong on both fronts now."

"When the play-offs come round, we have nothing to fear. Having finished fourth, there is no pressure on us."

"But we know we can beat Canterbury, we played our best ever hockey against Leicester and we have beaten Reading."

"It should be an exciting weekend with a great atmosphere."

She added: "In the match against Canterbury, we had great support in terrible conditions. Canterbury threw everything at us, they even replaced their keeper with an outfield player to attack more."

"But our keeper played well and we kept them out. When that final whistle went it was a relief as they had really been battering us."
